

16,859 Students Forecast For 1965

Sixteen thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine students at the University of Kentucky in 1965!

This possibility was advanced by the Committee of 15 in a report to the Board of Trustees, and represents the maximum estimate of this committee after a study by its members as to what kind of a university Kentucky will be in 1965.

However, the minimum estimate of student enrollment for 1965 was 10,392, which still represents a gain of some 3,500 students over present figures.

The Committee of 15 is an advisory board created in September, 1954 by the Board of Trustees with the immediate objective of studying UK and its program and the long-range goal of finding out what kind of a university Kentucky will be in 1965, its 100th anniversary.

Dr. Thomas E. Clark, head of the History Department, serves as chairman of the committee, which also includes both vice-presidents, Leo M. Chamberlain and Frank D. Peterson.

The committee also forecast that by 1960 UK would have a maximum of 10,400 students enrolled and a minimum of 8,100. Dr. Robert L. Mills, registrar, predicted the figure would be somewhere around 9,000.

There are two major reasons for the predicted increase according to the committee. One is the sharp increase in the number of children who will reach college age in the 1960's and the other is that the quality of public school programs is definitely improving, thus increasing the proportion of high school graduates going on to college.

Members of the committee are now studying the problems which will arise with the expected surge in enrollment, but these reports will not be completed for some time.

Concert Series Offers Mozart Piano Festival

Pierre Luboshutz, Genia Nemenoff, and Boris Goldovsky will appear in the Mozart Piano Festival, at 8:15 p.m. Monday, Feb. 27 in Memorial Coliseum.

The piano festival will use three pianos and an orchestra in trying to imitate the conditions of the small concert halls of Mozart's time.

Luboshutz and Nemenoff are a two piano team recognized in both Europe and America and have appeared as duo-pianists soloists with Toscanini. They have also appeared with the Philadelphia, and Boston orchestras.

Goldovsky, the conductor, is the master of ceremonies of the Metropolitan Opera News of the Air and director of the New England Opera Theatre. He is also head of the Opera Department of the Berkshire Music Center.

Hernandez To Go On Active Duty

Dr. Juan E. Hernandez, associate professor of Romance Languages, will go on active duty on March 1 with the Air Force ROTC unit at UK. Dr. Hernandez who is a colonel in the Air Force Reserve will be on active duty for two weeks.

During his tour of duty, Col. Hernandez will familiarize himself with every phase of the reserve program, and he will also teach classes in air science.

The Air Force reserve program is nationwide, and every officer has an assigned place to go in the event of mobilization. Col. Hernandez will serve two weeks a year actually doing the duties that would be required of him in an emergency.

Dr. Hernandez was appointed as language instructor at UK in 1936. In 1941, he entered the military service. He spent nearly five years as an instructor in Spanish, Portuguese, and Russian at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

He was released from the Air Force in 1948 with the rank of lieutenant-colonel, taught for three years at UK, and was recalled to active duty in 1951.

Athletic Group Says No To Student Request

By MARNEY BEARD

A request to allow married women students to purchase student tickets for athletic events for their husbands who are not attending UK was denied by the Athletic Association Board of Directors.

The request, submitted by SGA President Don Whitehouse at the board's meeting Jan. 17, asked that these wives be allowed the same privilege as male students who are able to buy tickets for their wives enabling them to sit in the student section at a special rate.

The board, in denying the request, stated that since these married women represented such a small minority on the campus, it felt that if they were allowed to purchase these tickets, a harmful precedent would be established. Thus, other minority groups would feel they were entitled to the same privilege and apply pressure on the Athletic Board.

The Board, however, emphasized that it will re-examine the matter periodically upon request and will organize committees for further

Frats Pledge Only 95 Men

UK fraternities pledged 95 men during spring rush week which ended Tuesday. This is five more than pledged last spring.

The number of pledges for this year is still about 12 per cent lower than last year. Last year 456 men pledged compared to 398 this year.

The new pledges are:

Alpha Gamma Rho: Robert Kemp, Arthur W. Powell.

Alpha Sigma Phi: James J. Jeffries.

Alpha Tau Omega: George Jordan, George Niehaus, and Tommy Marston.

Pat Boone To Be Here For Pi Week

Pat Boone, well known recording star, will be at UK for an all campus dance during Pi Week. Featured with Boone at the dance will be George Rank and his orchestra and Yvonne Wilson.

Pi Week is being sponsored by the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity in celebration of their founding on March, 1868. Other events for the week will be a pie eating contest and a freshman quern contest.

The dance will be from 8 p.m. to 12 a.m., Friday, March 2, in the Student Union Ballroom. It is to be semi-formal (cocktail dresses for girls and dress suits for boys) with tickets priced at $3.25 in advance and $3.75 at the door.

In an advertisement on page 3 of last week's Kernel, we erroneously ran the date of the "Pi Week All Campus Dance" as being March 12. The correct date for the dance is March 2.

It'll be a long while before the UK campus will witness the crowning of a more charming Kentuckian Queen with such an outstanding court. Booker Andrews, the 1956 "Queen of Queens" is seen surrounded by UK beauties (l. to r.) Vivian Long, Silvia Jett, Ann Smith, Jane Thornburg, Norma Jean Brandenburg and Marcia Wilder. The queen and her court were presented Saturday night at the annual Kentuckian Dance, jointly sponsored by Lamp and Cross and the Kentuckian.

YMCA Offers Job Opportunities

Positions for college students as summer counselors are now available, the YMCA has announced. Men who are skilled in arts and crafts, tennis, woodcraft, athletics, riding, business and canoeing are especially needed.

The camps last from 8 to 10 weeks. Salaries range from $100 to $300 plus food and lodging. In these camps there is opportunity for study as well as work.

A few of the camps are Camp Longview, Longview, Wash.; Camp Crosley, Muncie, Ind.; Camp Peomingo near Louisville; Camp Sequoyah, Weaverville, N. C.; Camp Graylock, Becket, Mass., and Blue Ridge Assembly, Blue Ridge, N. C. Some of these camps are connected with the YMCA; some are not.

Anyone interested in counseling during the months of June, July and August should call the YMCA Employment Office.

Former Kernel Staffer Named To Ag Position

Frank Borries, former managing editor of the Kernel, has been appointed agricultural extension editor at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics by the Board of Trustees. He will assume duties on April 1.

Borries is associate editor of the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Florida at Gainesville. Until last May, Borries was the farm editor of the Lexington Herald, and before that he was the tobacco market reporter for the Lexington Leader. He has also worked for Ohio and North Carolina newspapers. Borries graduated from the UK School of Journalism in 1936.

The new editor replaces C. A. Lewis who is retiring after 32 years as extension editor.

UK Officials Heard On Radiocasts

The Ashland and Standard Oil Companies have sponsored talks given by UK officials between halves of the Kentucky basketball games.

These speeches, heard over stations WLAP and WVLK, cover various aspects of the University with emphasis placed on the individual colleges.

Speakers heard over the Ashland Oil Station, WLAP, were L. L. Martin, Georgia Tech; Elvis J. Stahr, Tulane; Frank G. Dickey, Louisiana State; Frank J. Welch, Duke; Herman E. Spivey, Mississippi; Earl P. Stone, Mississippi State; and Elvin J. Stahr, Vanderbilt. Robert L. Mills will speak during the Tennessee game.

The Standard Oil speakers heard over station WVLK were Sarah B. Holmes, Georgia Tech; Frank G. Dickey, Tulane; Elvis J. Stahr, Louisiana State; Cecil C. Carpenter, Duke; M. M. White, Mississippi; Lyman Ginger, Mississippi State; and D. V. Terrell, Vanderbilt. Frank D. Peterson will be the speaker at the Tennessee game.

FAMOUS LAW CASES: NO. 1—GRANSMIRE vs. MIDDLE ATLANTIC BUS AND DRAY CO.

Gransmire, the plaintiff in this celebrated case, lived with his daughter Ernest and a canary named Whirlaway on Elm Street in Cooch, Delaware. The Middle Atlantic Bus and Dray Co. started operating a bus line on Elm Street. The passing buses caused a cut-glass chandelier in the Gransmires' living room to begin tinkling. The chandelier tinkled in the key of E-flat. This so unnerved the canary, Whirlaway, whose key was C-sharp, that the poor bird moulted out of season, caught a chill, and died untimely.

Ernest, Gransmire's daughter, was herself so unsettled by the death of the canary that she flunked her final exams at the Boar's Head Beauty and Barber College, where she had been a promising student, majoring in bangs. Now removed, willy-nilly, from the skilled labor market, Ernest found work carrying a sandwich sign for the old Vienna Chow Mein parlor.

Here she met a bus-boy named Crunch Sigafos. Although Crunch was not especially attractive — he had, for one thing, a large bushy tail — he was always clean and neat and kept his shoes shined, and after a decent interval, he and Ernest were married.

Ernest soon learned that Crunch's large bushy tail was not as anomalous as she had supposed: Crunch was a werewolf. After a while Ernest got sick of staying home at night while her husband went prowling about, so she asked him to change her into a werewolf too, which he did with an ancient Transylvanian incantation. Then, together, the two of them would lope out each night and meet a lot of other werewolves and maybe kill a few chickens or hear some book reports or just lay around and shoot the breeze.

Meanwhile, Ernest and Crunch's landlady, a miser named Mrs. Augenblick, noticed that Ernest and Crunch never used their room at night, so she, in her greed, started renting it to transients. One night a Mr. Ffolliott stayed there. In the morning while brushing his hair, he took a bottle that looked like hair tonic out of the cabinet, poured some, and rubbed it vigorously into his scalp. Unfortunately, it was not hair tonic, but a bottle of glue which Ernest had bought to mend a model airplane that Crunch had given her for their paper wedding anniversary.

As a result of Mr. Ffolliott's grisly error, he was unable to remove his hat and was, therefore, barred from his usual occupation which was lecturing to women's clubs. He sued Mrs. Augenblick, who sued Ernest, who went to her father, who sued the Middle Atlantic Bus and Dray Co. who had started the whole horrid chain of events.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said the defense attorney in his opening address, "this case, though very ramified, is covered by law. Indeed, every facet of life is covered by law. Law governs the homes you live in, the cars you drive, the food you eat. Even the cigarette you smoke is strictly regulated. The gentleness, however, is Philip Morris's own idea. Out of their vast experience as tobacco people, out of their profound regard for the astuteness of your palate, the makers of Philip Morris have evolved a gentle, new cigarette, with a taste as mild as a May morn, as subtle as gossamer, as welcome as money from home. I thank you."

Whereupon everybody rushed to the tobacco counter to buy bright red, white and gold packs of Philip Morris and were all rendered so amiable after a few gentle puffs that the whole complicated case was dropped. This later became known as the Delaware Water Gap.

Victorian Dress

Wear dresses and skirts, girls.

This is not advice from a spinster aunt, but a current University ruling on the attire of females in UK sororities and residence halls. It is even more ridiculous than it sounds.

According to the ruling handed down over a week ago, UK coeds are considered "improperly dressed" if they show up in their living quarters in less than dresses or skirts and sweaters.

This appears to be the ultimate in narrow-mindedness. A girl in the year 1956 is by no means considered undressed or "improper" in bluejeans, bermudas, or shorts. These items of attire are in no secret; certainly they are not obscene.

Supposedly the rule was handed down because the residents of Keeneland Hall (and other UK coeds) had been seen eating their lunches in the Student Union in clothes "not becoming a lady."

It is doubtful whether or not skirts and sweaters or dresses constitute a lady. It is also highly doubtful as to whether the "townspeople" were shocked to see UK dasmels eating at the SUB and Grill in bermudas and other such modern attire.

The rule not only affect the dress of girls eating in the cafeteria—but also the attire in general of all females living in UK residence and sorority houses. No longer is it permissible for a coed to do her homework in her own sorority house in clothes less than a skirt and sweater or a dress. A girl may not come "downstairs" unless she is attired, in a fashion, for what would ordinarily constitute a normal dating attire.

It is to be admired when the University of Kentucky tries to cultivate "ladylike" attributes. This is beyond question. But when the University dictates puritanical clothing for everyday living—that's going too far.

Any coed on any campus should have the right to wear informal clothing to study or to eat in. She should not be subject to archaic rules concerning her apparel at such times.

Scores of UK females have protested against this latest ruling. They believe that they are being neither "improper" nor immodest in wearing informal clothes within the confines of their particular living quarters. They believe it is idiotic to wear a dress before they may eat their Saturday lunches, study in their living rooms, or greet guests.

Most of the campus feels the same way.

If it is deemed inadvisable to dress informally in the Grill or SUB, one rule should cover the one situation. Surely the entire group of coeds should not be subjected to a rule covering one fault.

Reports state that the skirts and dresses attire ruling will be appealed. This is only logical. It is also only logical to assume that UK will realize that a girl is no less a lady for wearing less than a dress in her place of residence.

M&O Criticized

Last fall several fraternities had equipment stolen at the Lances' Carnival. Four months have now passed, and still no one has accepted the responsibility for the loss. The fraternities claim Lances was responsible. Lances places the blame on M&O, and M&O says it wasn't their fault.

Lances gave M&O a work order. In the order Lances specified that M&O should provide police protection for the carnival and close the gates to the stadium at 6 p.m.

After the theft Maintenance and Operations interpreted police protection to mean only direction of traffic, not guarding the booths. M&O said they couldn't close the gates because cars were parked under the stadium. Lances had told the fraternities and sororities that must clear their automobiles out of the area by 6 p.m. or have them locked in for the night. M&O's excuse is extremely flimsy.

Lances has tried to find a reasonable solution to the problem. They asked the city police to look for the stolen equipment, and they have met numerous times with Vice-President Peterson and Mr. Farris of M&O.

Now the matter is stalemated. M&O has absolutely refused to pay any part of the loss, and Lances does not feel wholly responsible.

Lances cannot be expected to assume the entire burden. Actually the fraternities, Lances, and M&O were all negligent. The fraternities should have taken the more valuable equipment home the night of the Carnival. Lances should have checked with M&O about the police protection and the gates, and M&O should have certainly carried out the work order given them. Lances paid M&O over $300 for equipment and labor used on the Carnival. Lances did not get the services they paid for.

Perhaps M&O is not legally responsible for the theft, but they do have a moral obligation. The work order might have been worded rather loosely, but nevertheless M&O knew as well as Lances what the order meant. A university is supposed to give students ethical training. If the school cannot abide by the moral standards they have set, what can they expect of the students?

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

"ONE NICE THING ABOUT THIS COURSE—YOU ONLY HAVE ONE TEXT TO BUY."

Last Of Stylus

The Kernel has been rather harsh with Stylus this year. UK's literary magazine has been denounced as "obscene, profane, and poorly written". As to be expected half the students bravely cheered the Kernel, and the other half bitterly denounced the Kernel as non-intellectual, prejudiced, bigoted, and generally thick between the ears. Of course criticism of this sort is the standard defense used by wounded "intellectuals" so the Kernel's feelings weren't severely damaged.

The Kernel condemned Stylus half seriously and half in fun. The Kernel does not claim to be highly intellectual, but neither does it belong to the rock and roll, motorcycle boots set. Its position is somewhere in the great middle class. Consequently the Kernel believes several of the selections in last fall's Stylus used profanity indiscriminately.

The Kernel isn't so prudish as to advocate purging all profane passages from literature, but it does believe a writer should use some discretion. Profanity and sex should be used only when it is directly connected with the action of the story. Some of the Stylus contributors seemed to be merely showing off their new-found "intellectual freedom".

As one dear old lady said, "Why do people write about dirty things when there are so many beautiful things in life?" Only another dear old lady could agree completely with her, but even Stylus must admit she does have a point.

Basically Stylus is a good magazine. It is a sounding board for students with literary aspirations. UK needs a literary magazine. After all a university is supposed to promote intellectual achievement and expression. And it is not unusual for the writing in college magazines to be rather abstract. Quite often intellectual college students revel in exotic and bizarre literature. Off-beat writing is part of literature and should be published. A subsidized college magazine is about the only place it can see the light of day.

However, Stylus went a little too far last fall. This is not a condemnation of Stylus in general, but rather of a specific issue. Everyone has his faults. Even the Kernel—perish the thought—makes mistakes.

SGA has requested the Athletic Board to investigate excessive student drinking at football games. It's highly probable that SGA is building a mountain out of a molehill. Naturally some students make fools out of themselves at the games, but certainly the majority of the students are well behaved. The drinking problem doesn't warrant the hue and cry SGA is raising. If anything it will create a bad impression with the Athletic Board where one is not justified.

The Athletic Board has refused to sell low priced tickets in the student section to husbands of student wives. The Board said it would set a bad precedence. According to the Board other small minorities would demand cheap tickets. It's hard to follow the logic of the Board. It seems discriminatory to allow wives of students in at low prices and not husbands of students.

The Workshop

Old Proprietor Answers Personal Problem Mail

By RAY HORNBACK

Each day the Kernel receives quite a variety of mail. Much of it consists of handouts, press releases and bits of propaganda which are deposited in the trash can.

Occasionally we receive a letter of praise, and quite often poison pen letters find their way to us. But recently we have been flooded with a deluge of personal problem letters. Some of them are sad, some amusing. We'll pass along a few of them to you here and try to help the poor souls who seek aid by giving them what meager advice we can drum up.

Here's a rather ticklish one we received recently:

Dear Editors, I have a problem. I have been dating a boy for 12 weeks. He now wants to pin me. But I'm afraid when he does he will discover the real me. What shall I do?

Clarissa Cateall

Clarissa . . . the best advice we can offer is to quote an old saying—"Honesty is the best policy."

Dear Editors, I am to give a senior recital in three weeks. At this point in the game, I have not been able to complete my program. I am a voice student. Could you offer any suggestions in regard to what songs I might sing?

Brett Birdtone

Brett . . . Yours is truly a worthwhile project. We suggest you offer either "Surgery with the Fringe on Top" from "Medic," or "Ouch" from the Broadway hit "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

Dear Editors, After seeing "The Rose Tattoo," I have decided to have placed upon my chest the replica of an American beauty rose. Do you think this proper?

Angorra Agony

Angor . . . In the modern world of today, we feel that such a tattoo will go unquestioned in society. And if you need help in cultivating your rose garden, please let us know.

Dear Editors, I'm glad the UK campus has finally come up with a humor magazine. Such a publication has been sorely needed for many years. I heartily approve of Stylus.

A Friend

Friend . . . While you do not have a problem, we feel justified in running your letter in that you have solved a problem with which we have been toying for months. And that is classifying Stylus. You're right—it is a worthy humor magazine.

Editors, I was recently married. My wife and I are planning to live in a house trailer when we graduate. We plan to travel around the U.S. Would you advise such a move?

Sag Sterno

Sag . . . We admire your adventuresome spirit. But we must warn you of a couple we once knew who lived in a house trailer and drove each other crazy.

Editors, I am a graduate student in Home Economics. I have been at the University for five years and have just finished my thesis on "Twenty Methods of Tossing a Salad." But I have a problem. Most of my girl friends are queens of some sort. I would like to be a queen, but there seems to be no contest for graduate students. What should I do?

Cutie Pies

Barbara Coffman, KKG; Joan Pittelko, KD; Vera Dean Scott, Hamilton House; Mary Ruth Warner, Dillard House; Joan Reid, Lydia Brown; Sally Ely, Boyd Hall; Joan Hazelwood, AGD; and Delores Cohen, PSS.

Eartha Downta

Eartha . . . Just wait around. A queen contest will soon get to you. Lamp and Cross had the best idea in many a moon by naming the Kentuckian Queen the "Queen of Queens." But it seems other groups will never tire of naming a queen.

In the next couple of weeks, a freshman queen will be named. And if other groups realize that all you need for a successful event is a queen, we'll have a sophomore, junior, and senior queen. There'll also be a graduate queen, a faculty queen, a queen of secretaries, a queen of housemothers and a queen of those not acceptable for other contests. Good luck Eartha!

Shakespearean Authority Explains Happiness Rules

By JANE SUTHERLAND

Do you want to live happily? About 60 members of the English Club and their guests heard Chaucer's formula for happiness found in his poem, "Truth," as it was interpreted by Dr. Hardin Craig, noted Shakespearean authority, at a recent meeting held at McVey Hall.

Craig, a native of Owensboro, pointed out that the people of the Middle Ages looked at life in much the same way that we do today. Their civilization, too, was a precious one with its aggregate knowledge of the ages, and they, too, felt the need of a quiet rational doctrine for living.

Craig's interpretation of Chaucer's poem in plain, everyday English is as follows:

"Discover what your talents are, and do something with them. Time has no importance on earth except as a beginning, so get on your way."

"Be led by your own spirit. Don't take your ideas and principals from the crowd, unless these things run in line with truth.

"Get along on your own resources. It's nobody's duty to live in poverty, but don't consider wealth as an end in itself. Overwhelming ambition is not good, however, for it causes you to infringe on the rights of others.

"If you take it on yourself to advise others, you must be sure that your own living follows this example. Similarly, if you are critical of others, judge yourself by the same standards and see how you measure up.

"Don't be so selfish as to think the world was made for you. Don't try to own the world, either, for this ambition will only bring you grief.

"Serve God, and pray for yourself, of course, but also pray for others.

"Be thankful for your blessings, and be cheerful. Satisfy somebody, if it is yourself."

Nicotine Field Day

The haziness surrounding the UK campus is not smog—it's cigarette smoke from the hundreds of new smokers.

Keys to all cigarette machines on the campus were lost Wednesday by the vending machine service man while in the Campus Book Store.

For all students having a hard time making ends meet—the Automatic Merchandising Company is offering a reward for information leading to the return of the keys.

Hold out, students—rumor has it the reward increases one carton a week.

State electricity, the kind that sometimes makes a spark when you touch some metal object, is noticed oftener when the air is dry.

Barf!

To keep alive a long string of enlightening articles, Barf will attempt this week to clear up various misconceptions about the campus that new students or sheltered old ones may have.

First of all, the All-Campus Sings coming up soon. So that is not a bunch of canaries chirping out around Audubon Avenue. That particular street got its name from a group of birds in that area who banded together and called themselves the Audubon Society. They devoted their work to watching and observing humans in that locality emitting musical notes.

And believe it or not, those men squeaking around the campus in tennis shoes and carrying footballs to class are not the Wildcats in winter training, even though they have a coach named Minerva and have their lockers on Limestone.

Finally, new students, do not be alarmed when you hear the roar and sputter of several Marlon Brando-piloted vehicles on Fraternity Row. Many pairs of tight-cuffed pants will be spitting around apple, cherry, and lemon meringue pastries from February 27 to March 2.

History Of Leap Year Isn't New; Started By Old Maids In Scotland

The right for the women to stay around for many more of "come-a-wooling" on leap year is nothing new. It all dates back to an old maid's lobby in Scotland. This custom is now celebrating its 728th birthday, and seems content

An Act of the Scottish Parliament, passed in the year 1228, has been unearthed which says in the best Scottish brogue that if a man refuses to accept a leap year proposal by a maiden he must either prove that he already has a wife or the "mike in the sum of air hundredty pundes or less, as his estate may be."

This was worded so as to be only in effect "during ye reign of her maist blessed majestie, Margaret." In the year 1288, possibly when Margaret's reign ceased, this law was amended to apply to every leap year thereafter, and the penalty was cut to just "ane pundis."

A few years later, a similar law was passed in France and received the approval of the king.

It also said that before Columbus sailed on his famous voyage, a similar privilege was granted to the maidens of Genova and Florence.

There is no record of any fines imposed under the Scotch law, nor any traces of statistics of the number of spinsters who took advantage of it or of the French enactment.

According to a curious little book entitled "Love, Courtship, and Matrimony," published in London in 1606, the English did not need to have the leap year privilege forced upon them by statute, but allowed it to become a part of the common law.

Up to within a century ago there was another unwritten law of leap year that if a man should decline a proposal he should soften the disappointment which his answer would bring about by the presentation of a silk dress to the unsuccessful suitor for his hand.

Speaking of another age-old custom only closely associated with the preceding, persons have for a few centuries been born on that extra leap year day, February 29.

The question arises: If a person happens to have a birthday on February 29—does he get to celebrate it only every fourth year?

It is established by precedent that a person in such a case celebrates February 28 on the three years between leap years. "Due to the 29th appearing only once in four years, the 28th and 29th would be considered as one day when it did appear."

Because of Gilbert Tangye, a London barrister, who became the father of a son on February 29, this decree became definite.

In 1910, Mr. Tangye set himself to look up law and precedent on this subject of leap year birthdays.

His first appeal to Blackstone disheartened him. Blackstone, the author of Commentaries on the Laws of England; without noting any exceptions, says explicitly that a man's child attains his majority "on the day preceding the twenty-first anniversary of the person's birth."

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young manager handles finances for $40,000,000 business

General Electric is made up of more than 90 product departments that operate as individual "businesses" — each conducting its own legal, financial, manufacturing, engineering, marketing and research activities.

One of the most important of these businesses is the Technical Products Department that makes broadcasting and communications equipment and semi-conductor devices. Responsible for managing the finances of this $40 million business is Robert H. Platt.

Platt's Work Is Important, Responsible

In the next ten years, the Technical Products Department is expected to reach the $100 million mark — more than doubling its present size. This is a big job. And it requires Platt to keep tabs on everything from tax, cost, and general accounting to payrolls, budgets and measurements, credits and collections, and internal auditing.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

Experience gained in the Business Training Course and as a traveling auditor gave Platt a variety of financial experience. Like each of our 25,000 college-graduate employees, he was given the chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: When fresh young minds are given the freedom to make progress, everybody benefits — the individual, the company, the country.

ROBERT H. PLATT joined G.E. in 1941 after receiving his B.A. at Colgate University. He served 2 years in the Navy, attaining the rank of Lieutenant (J.G.). He is also a graduate of G.E.'s Business Training Course.

Modern automobiles are a thing of beauty.

You will find more satisfaction in owning and driving a car if you keep the appearance at the new car level. Perhaps these suggestions will help you in this respect.

First, remember that nearly all of Nature's elements are out to do battle with you over the finish of your car. Damaging weather, salt air, bugs, grease, road grime, rocks and harmful chlorides are your every day enemy. Your car would have to be stored away in a moisture-proof bag if you wish to keep it safe from deterioration. The chances are even then that the beauty would gradually fade.

Of course, this type of treatment is not possible, so you have to do what you can in a sensible manner. Your first and most important job is to keep the car clean. A good wash job regularly will do more than any other single thing to keep the new car shine up to par.

Doubletalk?

Athletic Board Tells Why It Denied TV Request

By MARNEY BEARD

Why wasn't the UK-Vanderbilt game last Monday night televised, since it had been a sellout for weeks in advance?

The answer to this question, one which has been puzzling Wildcat fans since before the game, is provided by the report of a meeting of the Board of Directors of the UK Athletics Association held on Feb. 7.

At this meeting, the board was requested to allow a telecast of the ball game by WLEX-TV. The request was denied, and a resolution was passed by the board which stated the University would not permit televising of its athletic contests until a committee now serving could complete a study and present a statement of policy concerning television.

This committee studying the problem is considering three main factors. They are (1) the University should consider not only what effect televising athletic events might have on its own future program but also what effect it could have on the sale of tickets at other colleges and high schools throughout the state.

(2) There is a question of fairness to be considered to people who buy tickets thinking there would be no televising of the games, and

(3) The University must consider whether televising of games would have any adverse effect upon its own sale of season tickets, since the entire athletic program of the University is financed through gate receipts and not taxes.

Jubilant

To put it mildly, the Big Blue was a jubilant crew after Monday night's crushing of Vanderbilt. Sweet revenge and a possible ticket to the NCAA tourney made the Vandy slaughter one to cheer about. And that's exactly what a standing room crowd of 14,000 did as the Cats clawed their way to a 21 point victory.

Joint Recital To Be Given

Phi Mu Alpha, men's professional music honorary, and the UK Music Department will present a twin recital at 4 p.m. Sunday, March 4 in Memorial Hall.

The first part of the program will be the annual All-American recital by the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia. All music on this program will be by contemporary American composers.

The first number will be a trumpet trio composed of Ray Rector, Lexington; John Darnaby, Lexington; and Robert Wills, Mt. Sterling, playing "Sonatina" by Donato.

The second number will be a baritone vocal solo by Charles Sims of Wilmore.

The UK Brass Choir will also give the first performance anywhere of a composition by an honorary member of the Alpha Gamma chapter, L. H. Horton, who is a composer in residence at Transylvania College. The number is called "Capriccio" and will be directed by Robert Wills, president of Phi Mu Alpha.

The last contemporary number will be the "Introduction and Pasacaglia" by Marks, performed by the brass choir.

Scenes from "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart will be given in the last part of the recital. A duettino sung by Elizabeth Roundtree, soprano, and Roy Woodall, baritone; "Cavatina" sung by Woodall, and an aria by Cherubino sung by Phyllis Tilton, soprano, are scheduled.

Other numbers will be a trio composed of Gail Jennings, soprano; Ronald Anderson, tenor; and Charles Sims, baritone; and an aria, "Figaro," sung by Ewel Cornett, baritone.

All selections from this opera will be sung in English. Gordon King will act as narrator and Harry Dunscombe and Quida Farmer will be the accompanists.

UK Sixth In Debate Tourney

Kentucky won sixth place in the Delta Sigma Rho Invitational Debate Tournament at Depauw University last Friday. UK was the only team to defeat the winner, Greenville College in Indiana, for even one debate.

Gov. A. B. Chandler has set the week of March 25-31 as Teacher Appreciation Week in Kentucky. This was done "to promote an appreciation of the great contribution our teachers are making to the Commonwealth of Kentucky," Chandler stated in his proclamation.

In observing Teacher Appreciation Week in Kentucky, Chandler asks that "appropriate steps be taken by all of our citizens as individuals and in organized groups, to show their appreciation by appropriate programs and activities honoring our teachers.

Local boards of education are urged to increase the salaries of teachers as much as possible with the funds available, considering the other necessary services and facilities that must be provided for their schools."

Prindl Is President Of Music Association

Frank J. Prindl, assistant professor of music at the University of Kentucky, has been elevated to the presidency of the Southern Division of the College Band Directors National Association.

Announcement of Prof. Prindl's new position in the association came from Nashville, Tenn., where members of the Southern Division met this week. The UK professor was automatically elevated from vice president to the presidency upon retirement of the former president.

In addition to serving as assistant professor of music at UK, the new president is director of the UK Concert Band. He has been associated with the University since 1945.

During the year of 1952-53 he was on Sabbatical Leave and studied music history and musicology at Florida State University under Dr. Warren Allen, well known American musicologist. While at Florida State he also studied advanced orchestral conducting with Ernest Von Dehnanyi, famous Hungarian conductor, composer, and pianist.

Prof. Prindl holds the Master of Music degree from the University of Arizona and a Bachelor's Degree in Education from Milwaukee State College.

Reading Exams Are Scheduled

Graduate Reading Examinations have been scheduled for French, Wednesday, April 11; German, Thursday, April 12; and Spanish, Friday, April 13. All examinations will be held at 3 p.m., in Room 302, Miller Hall.

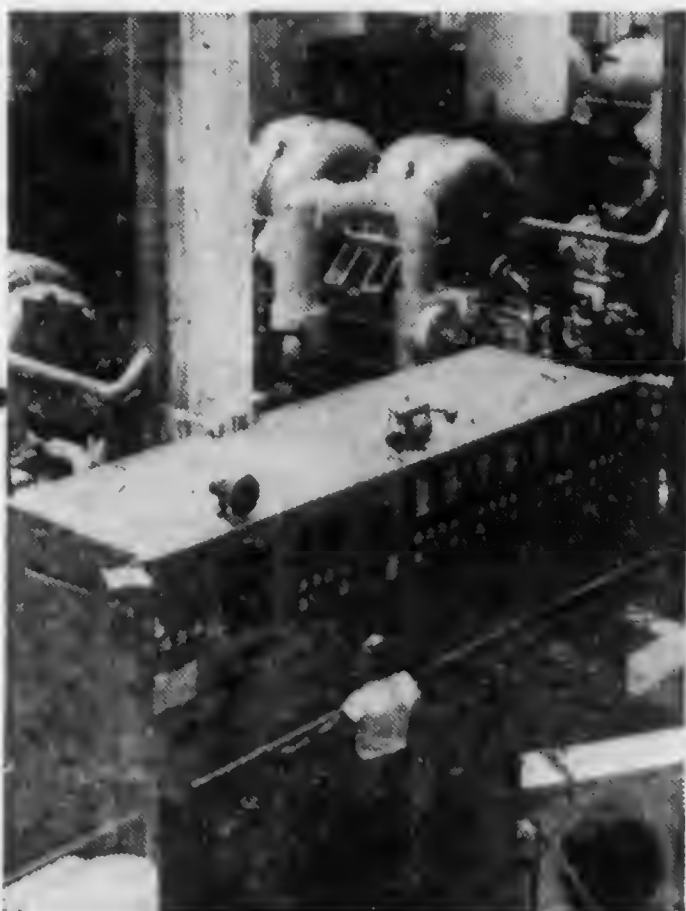

What's doing at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft

Jet Engines Tested in World's Most Complete Privately Owned Turbine Laboratory

Located on the bank of the Connecticut River at East Hartford is a singular development facility—the Andrew Willgoos Turbine Laboratory. Here, behind windowless, thick concrete walls, many types of engines find a never-ending challenge in the development and testing of advanced aircraft engines.

Test methods used by Pratt & Whitney Aircraft in their unique laboratory are highly complex. Tests are conducted on full-scale experimental engines at simulated altitudes up to 76,000 feet. Extremely high speed airflow, with pressure and temperature accurately controlled, duplicates speeds as high as Mach 2.75. To reproduce such prodigious flight conditions, extraordinary equipment had to be devised. For example, a 21,500-hp driving dynamometer supplies the enormous power needed to test jet engine compressors over a range of speeds from 800 rpm to 16,000 rpm.

The time lapse between development and production of new engines is reduced considerably by the advanced facilities of the Willgoos Laboratory. An outstanding example of results achieved through concentrated engineering effort and complete research support is the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft J-57 turbojet. Today the unchallenged leader in its field, the J-57 is merely the forerunner of greater aircraft engines that will power the preeminent military and commercial aircraft of the future.

Giant refrigeration units from which conditioned air is piped to test cells are located in the large central section of Willgoos Laboratory.

B-45 flying test-bed is shown here with an experimental jet engine suspended directly beneath the bomb bay. Its regular engines are idled while in-flight performance of the turbojet is observed and recorded. The perfect complement to the complex ground-testing facilities of the Willgoos Laboratory, the flying test-bed is another vital factor in reducing engine development time.

Five Years Ago (Feb. 23, 1951):

Phi Mu Alpha's modern jazz concert, portraying the evolution of jazz, was canceled because of a news feature appearing in the Lexington Leader. The story gave the erroneous impression that the "jam sessions," then currently being held in several Short Street bars, were connected with the proposed Phi Mu Alpha concert.

Bill Spivey, scoring 23 points, led Kentucky to its 22nd victory, by 60-57 over DePaul. The Wildcats clinched the Southeastern Conference Championship by coasting over Tennessee 86-61, as Spivey tossed in 29 points.

Ten Years Ago (Feb. 22, 1946):

Eight students, in Frankfort before a special House of Representatives committee, testified that morale on the University campus was as high or higher than at any time before the war, and denied that the Kernel was subject to administration censorship.

Beazley Named To New Post

The UK Board of Trustees Executive Committee this week approved the appointment of James A. Beazley as fund director of the UK Alumni Association.

The newly created post will have the responsibility of obtaining increased financial contributions from UK alumni for the University.

Beazley, 35, is a 1943 UK graduate from Lancaster. He formerly served as director of tourist promotion for the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce and executive secretary of the Danville Chamber of Commerce.

Damage was estimated at $400,000 when the University service building was destroyed by fire.

Twenty-Five Years Ago (Feb. 24 and 25, 1931):

Hundreds of college students and basketball fans cheered the Wildcats as they "were carried away by the Big Blue limited bearing them to basketball's raging torrent of destiny—the Southern Conference tournament in Atlanta."

The Wildcats entered the tournament standing 4th in the 23-team conference, which later divided into the present-day Southeastern, Atlantic Coast, and Southern Conferences.

State Senator A. B. Chandler, "widely known as a humorous and witty speaker," delivered an informal "X" on "The Real Fraternity" the first inter-fraternity picnic.

Forty-Five Years Ago (Feb. 23, 1911 "The Idea"):

"The Idea," predecessor of the Kernel, was in its second year of publication.

John Fox, Jr., "the foremost writer of this commonwealth," addressed the students.

The "Wild Cats" of State defeated Georgetown 47-22.

Noting that Transylvania was again to produce a play this year, the Idea said "there is no reason why we cannot do even better." To achieve that end, the newly-formed Dramatic Club called an audition.

Rupp's Big Blue Spacemen Land In Montgomery Plan To Make Bama's Rocket Eight Blast Off

Rupp's Big Blue journey to Montgomery, Alabama, this weekend to engage the "Rocket Eight" Crimson Tide of Coach Johnny Dee in the game that will probably decide the SEC crown.

Tomorrow's clash in the depths of Dixie will primarily decide whether the Crimson Tide will become sole owners of the title or if they will have to share it with defending champ Kentucky.

Whatever the outcome of the game tomorrow night, this much is certain—even if the Wildcats lose they will still be the most logical team to represent the SEC in the NCAA play-offs.

Both Alabama and Vanderbilt have men ineligible for the tourney due to the freshmen and four year rules. Kentucky should be the next team in line for the honor of playing in the post season classic.

Alabama, 10-0 in loop play and 17-3 on the entire season, trimmed a scrappy LSU five last Saturday night 77-50. However, LSU was handicapped by the injury of star forward Ron Sigler.

It must be remembered that neither of the two schools, Vandy or Alabama, have made any formal declaration or commitment as to what they might do should they become eligible for the NCAA.

As observers continue to assume that the two major title contenders will vanquish the assorted league foes that they have yet to face, the game tomorrow takes on an air of importance equal to that of the Vandy game last Monday night.

The Wildcats all but eliminated Vanderbilt from the title picture with the 76-55 licking they handed them earlier this week. Vandy however still has a mathematical chance of becoming the loop king.

The game, which was switched from the home court of the Tide to Montgomery in order to accommodate the huge crowd, should give the Cats an equal advantage as far as familiarization of the court goes. Then again the Alabama crew has been pointing for this one for a long time and will have the backing of a highly partisan crowd.

On the following Monday at Louisville the Cats will take on the Georgia Bulldogs in the next to last season appearance of the Blue.

While on the surface the game doesn't appear to present too much of a hurdle for the Cats it could turn into quite a game if the Bulldogs were exceptionally hot. Nothing would please the Georgia five more than to appear in the role of spoilers and upset the UK apple cart.

Battered Commodores Cry SOS As Wildcats Satisfy Appetite

By SCOOP WHITE

A hungry and determined Wildecat is hard to kill and Vanderbilt's Commodores found it out the hard way Monday night as they lost to Kentucky 76-55.

Bob Burrow, the long Cat pivot-man, led UK to this most important victory by putting on an All-American performance and tallying 34 points.

But this was a team victory. The Cats' offense was clicking to perfection, its defense was unbreakable throughout the game, and their spirit rose to new heights as the Wildcats' bench was up with every crucial play.

As the game began it was evident that it was Kentucky's night.

Jerry Bird started the scoring with a tip in and after four minutes of play the Cats had a 10-3 lead.

With the "Big Three"—Burrow, Bird, and Phil Grawemeyer—clearing everything off the boards, Kentucky steadily increased its lead to 30-11 midway of the first half.

Vandy couldn't penetrate the Wildecat defense as they only scored one field goal in the first eight minutes.

The hot-shot guards of Vandy, Al Rochelle and Clarence "Babe" Taylor, were held to a total of 25 points by the tight Cat defense.

Taylor, who usually has his highest scoring nights against Kentucky, did not connect for his first field goal until 3:30 remained in the first half.

He then hit for three straight as Vandy desperately tried to overcome the huge Kentucky margin.

The Cats led by 20 at the half, 46-26. They had a shooting percentage of 46.2 compared to Vandy's 29.6 per cent.

Burrow and Bird hit for goals to begin the last half.

Then the Commodores began to find the range, and before Kentucky could take a breath their lead had been knocked down to 54-42 with eight minutes left in the game.

But Vandy just didn't have it. The Cats maintained their 12 point margin and increased it as the minutes ticked off the clock.

Gerry Calvert pleased the enthusiastic crowd with his spectacular dribbling exhibition. At the start of the freeze the Wildcats were leading 64-52. Vandy began looking more like a grade school team and thus was only pushed further into the role with its frantic defensive play.

Kentucky which had trouble with its foul shooting all during the game came through in the clutch.

For the visitors Rochelle was high with 14 followed closely by Jo Gibbs with 12.

IVY STYLE — The natural, casual look is gaining more and more popularity and the summer suits we have just received are real knockouts. I personally like the Palm Beach "Bahia Weave" in the new Olive Green shade. Ivy Casual shirts by Enro and Ivy Style slax will continue to be great favorites for spring and summer.

BDEAGAN IORUING NA-ANON — Wow! — translated that means "little ironing or none" and McGregor has come up with a honey of a sport shirt in bold Italian Stripes designed with continental flair, that requires very "little ironing or none" — slip in and take a peek—you'll like it.

EARLY BIRD — Judging by the way Bermuda Shorts sold last year — they will probably be more in demand this year — so, be an "Early Bird" and get yours now. I can show you some smart colors and styles in Khaki or Linen with sox to match.

ONCE AGAIN — I want to tell you about the Mr. New in hats called the "HAWK" — this little felt hat by Knox is getting a lot of attention from "Fashion-Wise Guys." This new style is proving so popular that it will be made up in various straws for summer wear also.

Kickbacks

by TOM PRESTON
KERNEL SPORTS EDITOR

It's interesting to read newspapers of other colleges and universities, especially if the schools meet Kentucky in athletics.

For instance, when Vanderbilt upset the Cats last January 28 in Nashville the Vanderbilt Hustler had a field day—and rightfully so. Their Sports Editor, Bob Johns, called the win a team victory but was thrilled with the way Vandy's guards made monkeys out of UK's front liners. Too bad Bob couldn't have seen the reversal of this just last Monday night in Memorial Coliseum.

AND another sports column catches our eye. The Plainsman (Auburn student publication) was still excited over the Hutton incident in their February 15 issue.

Ed Williams' column. In the Stands, had this to say.

"The unusual fact about the incident was the almost complete absence of repercussions. Neither coach hurled epithets at the other through the press, although Kentucky mentor Adolph Rupp certainly had no reason to. Auburn coach Joel Eaves issued the simple statement, 'The referee called it a deliberate foul. We're going to let it go at that. We aren't cry babies.'"

Williams continues in his column by saying, "Still, as Eaves later pointed out, the real aftermath may be yet to come because, 'Auburn and Kentucky will meet in both football and basketball next season and it's hard to forget such things.'"

Eaves feels that the less said about the incident the better. It seems as if he has said enough already when he hinted that trouble might brew next season on the football field and hardwood. Wonder if Eaves realizes that the games will be in Lexington?

Not long ago a Lexington newspaper carried a story about UK's polo team.

It so happens that UK has no polo team and the Lexington paper found it out too late. The real story is that a few Kentucky students wanted to establish a university sponsored polo team. The University Athletic Association didn't sanction this idea and the matter supposedly was dropped. But the unthinking lads didn't let this worry them. They drove up to Yale, posed as a UK team and were sent home with their hides tanned.

Members of the squad should realize that they could give UK some mighty poor publicity if they continue to pose as a university team. Oh well, boys will be boys.

CALVIN Bird was in Lexington last Monday night to watch his big brother, Jerry, perform against Vanderbilt. Calvin is one of the state's top prep athletes, especially on the gridiron. I asked him if the stories linking him with Ohio State were true. "No," he replied. "Some time ago I had thought about going to Ohio State and playing ball but my mind has changed." Then is it Kentucky, I asked. "It sure is," he answered. "I'm up here all the time and I think it's a great place." He wants to play both football and basketball but it looks as if he will play only football.

The brightest part of this picture is that Calvin is only a junior at Corbin High School. With another season of football ahead for the zippy halfback, Kentucky will certainly have a prize package when his graduation day rolls around.

THE Kittens ended their season Tuesday with a loss.

Only the play of Johnny Cox was worth remembering about that night. Incidentally, Johnny averaged 32 points a game for the season. His shooting accuracy was almost 50 per cent. And man, can that lad rebound!

A Jingo is a rabid patriot who favors a spirited and aggressive foreign policy for his country. Originally, the term was employed merely as a mild oath.

Relays To Be Held In May

The Annual Spiked Shoe High School Relays will be held in Still Field Friday, May 4th. Relays will be held for Class "A" and Class "B" schools.

Sponsored by the University of Kentucky Athletics Association, a world champion track or field man will perform at the meet.

In the past, such greats as Bob Richards, champion pole vaulter and Harrison "Bones" Dillard, Olympic hurdles champion have visited Lexington for this event.

It is planned to have either Wes Santee the Kansas miler or Parry O'Brien the great shot putter appear this year.

Miniature spiked shoes will be given to the first five places in every field event and to members of the first three teams in every relay and the large Spiked Shoe Society trophy to the winning relay team.

About thirty or more teams plus 300 trackmen are expected to compete.

He's Married Too

Cager Or Preacher, Ed Is Tops

By BO GRIFFIN

Being a licensed Methodist minister and playing college basketball may seem like an unusual combination, but the people who know Ed Beck, fully agree that he excels in both.

Ed, a 19-year-old 6-7, 190 pound sophomore center from Fort Valley, Ga., came to the University of Kentucky after turning down scholarship offers from every other school in the Southeastern Conference. He had also been approached by quite a few other colleges and universities.

While attending high school at Ft. Valley, Ed was on the All-State team his sophomore, junior, and senior years. His team won the state championship two of these seasons. Upon graduation, he was issued an invitation to play in the annual North-South game at Murray, but had to decline because he was working.

Presently, Beck is the understudy to Bob Burrow and although he has not seen a lot of action this year, due to the Wildcats difficulty in winning games, he has shown the capabilities of becoming a fine center. Last year, as captain of the freshman team, he played outstanding ball and gave warning that he would have to be reckoned with in future years.

When Ed was asked about the best player he has seen or faced while at UK he gave this answer, "Well, I have to play against Bob Burrow every day in practice and I think that for his size he is the greatest."

In September, 1955, Ed was married to Miss Billie Ray of Ft. Valley.

They live in an apartment house here in Lexington and his wife is a nurse at Baptist Hospital. Ed said his favorite hobby is "keeping my wife busy."

But Mrs. Beck isn't the only one that is kept busy.

During the off season, Ed is in great demand as a speaker before various organizations and religious groups. He has also been a guest preacher in a number of churches and has already been scheduled for guest appearances this summer.

Beck is enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences and has a 2.6 overall average for his three semesters at UK.

After he graduates, Ed plans to attend a Methodist seminary and hopes to become either a youth evangelist or a foreign pastor.

10 Lettermen Help Rebuild Baseball Team

By MOT NOTSERP

Ten lettermen comprise a little over one third of UK's 1956 baseball roster.

The list of 29 varsity hopefuls includes a pitching staff of 12. Last season Kentucky's weakest length in a soft chain was pitching.

Five Kentuckians are fighting for the catching position. Of the quintet, three are letter winners and four are juniors.

Only six of the 29 players are from out of state.

Tallest man on the squad is 6-8 Phil Grawemeyer. Shortest is 5-8 Sophomore Jack Rigby. Lou Michaels supplies most of the beef, weighing in at 223 while Jerry Vance is the lightest at 158 pounds.

Youngest varsity candidate is Jerry Sullivan. He's 18. The old men are Bob Daugherty and Charles White. They're 23.

Lettermen include Ken Lehenp, Bob Bennett, and Phil Grawemeyer, pitchers; Tom Huey, James Morris, and Dave Kuhn, catchers; Jack Marston, infielder; and Gerry Calvert, Bill Willard, and Dough Lawhorn, outfielders.

Coach Harry Lancaster has turned practice duties over to his assistant, Abe Shannon, until the basketball season ends.

Shannon, an ex-umpire from Georgetown, Ky. will be in his first year as assistant diamond mentor at UK.

Last year UK had a 0-12 standing in the SEC.

Cox's Army Fails To Halt Campbellsville

Kentucky's freshman basketball team concluded its season on a sad note by losing to Campbellsville Junior College 107-95 Tuesday night at Campbellsville.

Coach Harry Lancaster's Kittens were never in command of the game as the winners, charged by Ray Freeman, built a 52-45 half-time lead. Freeman led Campbellsville with 27 points, but had to take second place in scoring honors for the game as the Kittens' Johnny Cox tallied 31 points for scoring honors.
